HONGKONG, DECEMBER STH, 1875.

THE London Press join in a chorus of satis faction at the pacific settlement of the recen difficulty with Ohina which though no altogether surprising may prove to be somewhat premature. The Pall Mall Gasette alone seems to remember that the real value of the guarantees obtained by Sir Thomas WADE can only be declared by the event. While admitting the general satisfactory nature of the intelligence received, it says :-The concessions which it appounces are still in the region of promise; and although of course performance cannot in affairs of this kind follow instantaneously upon promise, yet this is rather an argument against He resides at Cambridge, in England, and rest such a case with any chance of success undue impatience than in favour of relaxed effort. On the contrary, a continued exercise of vigilance and firmness will be requisite to keep the Chinese Government up to their word, and the same sort of pressure which had to be employed to extort the promise must, if necessary, be again resorted to to secure its performance." This is a sensible view of the question, and coincides with that entertained pretty generally by those who hest understand the way in which the Peking Authorities are wont to carry out put upon them they will concede almost anything asked, though unwillingly and lot the pressure be relaxed, and they will not be long before they contrive to evade fulfilling the stipulations obtained by gentle compulsion. There is every need for the warning which the Pall Mall so distinctly gives, the more so as the tendency with English statesmen is to surrender later on that which they are able at flist to wring from the fears of weak but treacherous powers. As she was under the experiencod pilotage of Captain Blanchard we may suppose that the fault was on the side of the junk. The junk was of a capacity of 750 to 1,000 picula, and was supposed to be rice-laden.

WAGES IN BRITISH CHIPS.

In 1848 the average rate per month was 48s. coming down to 1864, we find the average in that year to be 56a., while in 1874 it stood within a fraction of 70s, per month. From these figures it will be seen that whereas the average rate rose only 10s. during the seventeen years from 1848 to 1864, it has advanced 14s. during the last ton years. We frequently see statements to the effect that sailors are underpaid, but it muy be questioned whether the wages of any class of men have risen to such an extent, and so rapidly, as those of seamen bave done within the last few years. A glance at the table to which we now refer will show that 80s, per mouth is a common rate of pay, while in some cases 90s, and even 100s, is the amount carned per month. Nor does it seems that employvient had been scarce. According to a footnote to this return the Enperintendent at Poplar, in speaking of both 1872 and 1878, reports that China Fire Insurance Company's Shares $149 there has been a very limited supply of seamen throughout the year. Masters have managed to fill up their crows (sometimes with difficulty), but have had no choice." Now, 70s., 80s., and 100s, per month means something like £40, £50, and £60 per year, and out of this the seamen has simply to provide biaself with cluthing. With the exception of the time he chooses to pass on shore, he is never under the necessity of spending a single penny. And we think the for men employed in an occupation where nothing more than common intelligence combined with a certain amount of practical experience, is required, this rate of pay can by no means be considered inadequate. - Nautical Mayasine.

THE CHARGE OF THE SIX HUNDRED. The old soldiers of the Light Cavalry Brigade. the men who "rode into the Valley of Death". un that fatal October morning one and twenty. years ago, were invited to attend a meeting last night to make arrangements for a dinner celebration of the auniversary of the Balaklava charge. The trysting-place was the Prince of Wales Tavern, Villiers street, Strand, and the hour fixed for the number was nine o'clock, to enable those engaged in business to put-in an appearance. In consequence of the disagrecable drizzling rain, notiso many came as were expected, but a respectable contingent, in every sense of the word, of war-worn veterage apswered to the roll-oall all the same. Hale, hearty men they were, the most of them; but so portly of build that they set one wondering what sort of a light cavalry that must have made where the weight in the pig-akin ran up to eighteen atone of living flesh in sandry instances. Jevial of manner and nest of address, they discussed the matter before them as one might have expected in brief, soldierly and most harmonious manner. It was agreed that a dinner should be selemnized in the Charing Cross Hotel-is not solemnized the correct word, for has not Charles Lever defined a dinner na a social sagrament?—on the 25th of October, and it was stated that many officers who had helped to write one of the most brilliant. pages in our military annals had promised to give the avent the anotion of their presence. The greater part of those in the room had belonged to the Eleventh Russars, that distinguished corps baving been principally THE LUNDON ASSURANOE represed in London. One warrior had surved his apprenticeship to arms under De Lacy Evans in Spain; another was remarkable as having borne the flag of truce to the Russian lines the day after Baleklava; a third was never tired of celebrating the hauts faits of his ancient Captain, Sir Roger Palmer, who led the E Troop of the Eleventh into action, and did his slaughter with cold steel, having forgotten his prepared to grant Insurances as follows revolver in the harry to jump into the saddle. After the formal proceedings were over, there was some thre gossip over the former campaign, and the non-military observer was enabled to pick up some interesting reminiscences.

It is a surious of cumstance that every man but one who won that supremest of all military Policies issued for long or short periods at distinctions the Victoria Cross, in the inagnific trrent rates. cent mad ride immortalized by the Laurence, had his borse shot under him. There was Trooper Samuel Parkes of the Light Dragoons, Policies issued for sums not exceeding £5,000, who stood on the ground with his charger writhing in the death agony beside bim. Trumpet-Major Crawford dashed by, his good steed stumbled, the rider was dismounted, and his naked sabre went whirling from his grasp. A pair of Cossacks saw their opportugity and spurred upon the defenceloss Crawford: but Parkes confronted them and kept them at bay. When the retreat come the two brave fellows followed their comrades and were pursued by Fire to the extent of $40,000, on Buildings of six Russians; but Parkes, with his single sword, on Goods stored therein. held them at arm's length and retired slowly. fighting and defending the Trampet Major, until deprived of bis weapon by a shot. This is no rodomentade, but plain fact, as recorded in the Gazette. Lieutenant Alexander Robert Duon, of Cardigan's boys, was another hero of that day, fruitful in beroes. He saved the life. of Sergeant Bentley, of his own corps, by cutting down two or three Russian troopers who were attacking him from the rear, and afterwards hewed to the chin in Russian hossar who had: fallen upon Private Leveti. This Dunn, it will be romembered, afterwards commanded the Thirty-third, being the youngest mun of his THE SECOND COLONIAL SEA AND rank in the army, and perished in the Abyssinian expedition. Riding-muster Joseph Malone had bis berse shot in the charge, but, properly speaking, his bit of glorious gon-metal was gained the day previous, when he volunteered with three froopers, on the march to Balaklava, and captured an escort of the enemy's oavalry and the baggage they were conveying to Sebasto pol. The courageous Irishman, Parrell, who had lost his horse, like the majority of his plucky companions, and had gone near to losing his life, was awarded the envied honor, but did not long survive to wear it. Oberles Wooden, now a Quartermaster in the One Hundred and Pourth Foot, was another of the Seventeenth Lancers who carned the Oross on the 25th of October, 1854, and he too had his charger killed in the wild melee. Assisted by Dr. Monatt, of the lumiskillen Dragoons, be succeeded in carrying Major Morris, of his own regiment, who lay dreadfully wounded, to a place of safety. In chatty rocollections such as those we baye tried to pen; and in tales of bair breath scopes in the hard days gone by, the time was pleasantly passed, and shortly before alleight the survivors of the " Six Hundred " separated, looking forward with joyous anticipation to a merry meeting on Balaklava Day,—Standard of September 23rd.

his fellows. Life that breathes and moves and breaks into form and flowers, had sweetness for him which it had lost for them nor was he ever led by force of any philosophy to tire of the beauty of things that are given us to see. His worship of nature was at once passionately near and tenderly remote, carry ing away from earthly beauty the very taute and sevour of its lips, and bearing into a chambor of distant dreams the minutest memories of living form and colour. The dying things of nature, as they passed into the new life of his verse, kept still unspoiled the uncareful joyousness of earliest growth Their raiment was not changed, nor its brilliance lost; but in their new world of poesy they reappear as though transfixed with magic suddenness in all the roundness and reality of sensuous beauty. Keats possessed the joyous spirit of a discoverer to whom the whole world had been but newly found, "I muse," he writes in one of his letters. " with the greatest affection on every flower I have known from my infancy, Their shapes and colonr are as new to me as il I had just created them with a superhuman fancy." As the love of nature returns, there must, in these bright periods of renewal. always be some Spirits like to Keats; who desire to attach no philosophy to the loveliness of grass and flowers. We weary with laments over our complex and infirm thoughts of the time-grown colourless for but; but beneath all sickly speculations, the world of flowers and of passions that grow like flowers, still lies unspoiled for him who will out straight to its centre; and it is this power of reverting to the direct vision of things that marks off clearly the man in whom the artistic spirit is supreme. common sense through the Servian character that seems peculiar to agricultural populations everywhere. They like to see their way clear before them, and, having once done so, follow it with a dogged pertinactly very different from the flash-in-the-pan energy of the Latin races. Thus they set about the improvement of their roads; in every village there is a well-built school; an int, with first, second and third-class accommodation, an hospital destined for the cure of the large number of patients suffering from the effects of the diseases they accuse the Turks of having introduced into the country—rather a dogmatical and problematical assertion, by the way. Justice, apart from such vagaries as these above mentioned, and without reference to foreigners, is fairly administered, and their morality—certainly their honesty and freedom from tendency to theft and pilfering—are perhaps higher than that of—most agricutural communities. They are excessively fond of music and poetry; the Prince's band at Belgrade would bear comparison with any other military band, and they are great admirers of natural beauty. But all their virtues are considerably dashed, for the foreigner at least, by their overweening conceit and national vanity, which fully	## HONGKONG MARKETS. COTTON GOODS COTTON GOODS American Sheetings, 16 lbs: per plene 23.80 s. 5,76. American Drills, 30 yards 2.75 s. It is on the expressional side of his art that Keats stands in most clear contrast with his fellows. Life that breathes and moves, and breaks into form and flowers, had a sweetness for him which it had lost for them; nor was he ever led by force of any philosophy to tire of the beauty of things that are given us to see. His worship of nature was at once passionately near and tenderly remote, carrying away from earthly beauty the very taste and sevents of its line, and hearing into a	7,000	Sad 1.45 a 1.3 0.83 a 1.10 0.83 a 1.10 0.83 a 1.10 13.80 a 14.50 0.83 a 1.10 13.80 a 14.50 0.83 a 1.10 0.83	Isingless, Japan 86.00 a Melon Soeds, 1st quality 6.60 a 9nd 5.20 a Mushrooms 55.00 a Museels, Dry Siem largo 11.60 a middle 7.50 a	1.00.
